ITEMS DEBATEDFishing opportunities for 2011

The Council held an exchange of views on fishing opportunities for 2011 on the basis of the Commission's communication (9888/10; 10913/10).

Most of the delegations agreed, on one hand on the objectives of conserving the stocks but regretted on the other, that the Commission proposed to reduce quotas for certain categories of fish although no scientific evidence was provided to confirm the need for this. Some delegations pointed out that the implementation of new measures in this area should be flexible and progressive.

The Presidency insisted on the importance of scientific data and considered it essential to have an exchange of views at Council level on this communication in order to prepare for the annual setting of TACs and the allocation of quotas scheduled for the last quarter of the year.

In its communication, the Commissioner in charge of Maritime Affairs and Fisheries Maria Damanaki set out the general approach to be taken in formulating Commission's proposals for fishing opportunities in 2011. The objective of many of the measures proposed in this document is to reach the maximum sustainable yield (MSY) targets agreed in Johannesburg by 2015. The document outlined the state of the stocks, the need to reduce capacity, the commitment to long-term plans and possible new rules governing the setting of some total allowable catches (TACs). For many important stocks which are now under long-term plans, these plans should be implemented now. In addition, for stocks for which no long-term plans have yet been proposed, it would be appropriate to move towards MSY by specific measures detailed in the communication.

Reform of the common fisheries policy

Ministers held an exchange of views on the available policy options for the reform of the common fisheries policy (CFP) following a presentation by Commissioner Maria Damanaki.

The Commission's presentation to the Council underscored the need for review of the CFP by explaining that in the absence of reform, the outlook for the future would be catastrophic for conservation of fish stocks and the economic situation of fisheries, with a severe impact on those who depended on fishing for their livelihood.

Following the Commission's presentation, three delegations, while mentioning the importance of a sustainable fishery, proposed a common declaration highlighting their attachment to the fundamentals of the CFP, in particular management by national quotas and their opposition to the introduction of individual tradable rights (ITRs) at EU level.

Other delegations identified a number of elements to be taken into account in subsequent discussions on the CFP reform in particular:

- devolution of decision-making to regional/national levels and closer involvement of stakeholders,
- a differentiated approach for industrial and coastal / small-scale fleets,
- discard reduction inter alia through development of more selective fishing gear,
- better matching of fleet capacity to fish stocks availability,
- responsible behaviour all along the fishery chain,
- improved efficiency of controls,
- promotion of aquaculture development.

Some of these elements had been already raised during a preliminary exchange of views on the subject on 4-5 May 2009.

There was a broad discussion on the introduction of ITRs at EU level, with some delegations expressing their interest in ITRs at national level.

In preparation for the reform of the CFP, the Commission issued a Green Paper on April 2009 (8977/09). This document analysed the outcome of the last CFP reform in 2002 and identified structural failings and the main issues to be addressed in the future. It raised issues such as: differentiated management regimes for industrial and small-scale coastal fleets, management tools, relative stability, trade and markets, integration of the CFP in a broader maritime policy context, the knowledge base of the policy, structural policy and public funding, the external dimension of the CFP and aquaculture.

The results of the broad consultation process initiated on the reform will be followed by legislative proposals to be sent by the Commission to the Council and the European Parliament in summer 2011.

Authorisation of six genetically modified maize varieties for food and feed

Proposals for decisions authorizing the use of six genetically modified maize varieties in food and feed, but excluding cultivation of them, have been presented to the Council for adoption. No agreement in favour or against the authorisations was reached.

Following the submission of initial applications for authorisation of these genetically modified varieties the European Food Safety Authority (EFSA) was initially consulted, as provided for by regulation 1829/2003, and issued favourable scientific opinions. On this basis, the European Commission drew up proposals for authorising these varieties, which were presented to the Standing Committee on the Food Chain and Animal Health (SCoFCAH). At its meetings on 9 February and 19 April 2010, the SCoFCAH was unable to achieve the qualified majority necessary to deliver an opinion for or against the authorisation measures proposed by the Commission. In the absence of an opinion it was up to the Council to act on the Commission proposals within a three month period.

Today, the Council noted that there was not qualified majority in favour or against the following 6 proposals:

- proposal for a decision authorising the placing on the market of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize 1507x59122 (10499/10)
- proposal for a decision authorising the placing on the market of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize 59122x1507xNK603 (10500/10)
- proposal for a decision authorising the placing on the market of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize MON 88017 x MON 810 (10501/10)
- proposal for a decision renewing the authorisation for continued marketing of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize Bt11, authorising foods and food ingredients containing or consisting of field maize Bt11 (10503/10)
- proposal for a decision authorising the placing on the market of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize Bt11xGA21 (10505/10), and
- proposal for a decision authorising the placing on the market of products containing, consisting of, or produced from genetically modified maize MON89034xNK603 (10502/10)

The Council having concluded its proceedings on this issue, the Commission is now entitled to finalise the decision-making procedure on all the proposals.

Simplification of agricultural and veterinary legislation

Ministers held an exchange of views on the simplification of agricultural legislation following a presentation by the Commissioners in charge of Agriculture and Rural Development and Health and Consumer Policy, Dacian Cioloș and John Dalli, on the state of the play of the ongoing process in their respective areas of responsibility (11126/10).

18 delegations pointed out in a common note the importance of simplifying legislation which, in their view, should be identified as a key issue in preparation for the reform of the Common Agricultural Policy scheduled for 2013. They regarded simplification as an important way of reducing the administrative burden on European farmers, streamlining rules and regulations and improving the quality of the legislation adopted.

Several delegations raised, inter alia, the following points:

- the need for measures to be more proportionate, in particular as far as controls are concerned;
- that simplification would help to make eco-conditionality measures easier to implement;
- the advantage of a risk-based approach and impact assessments as regards the administrative burdens of the legislative measures,
- the importance of better integrated action between agriculture and other areas such as veterinary or environmental matters.

Commissioner John Dalli raised the importance of the proportionality of the legislation and the need to have a clear evaluation of the costs of additional requirements. Commissioner Dacian Cioloș recalled that during the Agriculture and Fisheries Council on 24 April 2009, a number of delegations presented a list of 39 proposals aimed at simplifying various aspects of EU agricultural legislation. In response, a Commission staff working document was issued assessing the suggestions and finally keeping 25 of them. The follow-up prepared by the Commission indicates that several recommendations have been already implemented, in particular on direct payments and eco-conditionality; the implementation of many other simplification measures should be effective by autumn 2010 and will play a role in the proposals for the reform of the CAP after 2013 (promotion of agricultural products, rural development, etc.). In 2007 the Commission launched an overall action programme for reducing administrative burdens, identifying some possible actions in the area of the Common Agricultural Policy and food safety and animal health.

The Commission is expected to present another set of simplification measures to the Council in October.

Situation on the dairy market

The Council took note of the Commission's quarterly report on the dairy market (11015/10), presented by the Commissioner in charge of Agriculture and Rural Development, Dacian Cioloș.

The opening of sales of intervention stocks of butter and skimmed milk powder at the beginning of June 2010 indicated that the market had continued to recover since the last quarterly report to the Council of the in March 2010:

As a reaction to the crisis in the dairy sector, the Commission undertook in May 2009 to report to the Council on the situation on the dairy market every three months.

The High Level Group (HLG) established by the Commission in October 2009 was composed of representatives from all EU Member States. Major European stakeholder groups in the dairy supply chain were invited to provide oral and written input into the discussions and contributions were received from academic experts and third country representatives. In the middle of June 2010, the HLG published its report recommending a broad range of measures including enhanced contractual relations between milk producers and milk processors, improved of producer organisation, the importance of developing instruments to reduce market volatility and the advantage of innovation and research programmes. As part of the measures to regulate stocks of bluefin tuna, to improve the quality and reliability of statistical data and in order to prevent, deter and eliminate illegal fishing, ICCAT adopted amendments to the bluefin tuna catch documentation programme at its annual meeting in Recife (Brazil) on 15 November 2009.
